SOUTHERN COLLEGE OF SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS

The Key to Your Success

Before you commit to any college, take a FREE look at Southern College during College Days '91. Seniors, parents, transfer students, or others interested in attending Southern College are invited to join us on campus April 7 and 8 to experience college life first hand.

You'll take guided tours of our scenic campus, rub shoulders with students and faculty members, and learn about academic programs, financial aid, and scholarships. Scholastic contests offer cash prizes.

Best of all, the whole weekend is free—lodging, meals, and special activities are all on us.

Plan now to be part of the fun and excitement of College Days '91. Call or write now!

Our Gift for You

Something different. We've never before brought the campus calendar right into the college magazine.

It's our start-the-centennial-off-with-a-bang gift for you!

In the past some of our SOUTHERN COLUMNS readers have been able to pick up a calendar at a Southern Union camp meeting. Many of you have not had that opportunity. We've been thinking about you.

Turning to the center of this magazine, you will find a pullout section. It spreads out for you the year ahead at Southern. Major events may include programs and concerts you'd like to attend if you're able to visit us.

Ten photos will gently lead you, decade by decade, through history. From the Graysville days that closed out the 1800s and launched this century, through the SJC years which ended in the mid-'40s, and the SMC years which sweetened another four decades, you will step from memory to memory. If the memory is not your own, you can be sure it's someone else's. Step lightly!

And if you like the idea of including the calendar in COLUMNS for all our readers to enjoy, why not let us know?

A Personal Word to Our Alumni

It will soon be time to come home again . . . especially for those who graduated in a year ending with a 1, or in the 25-year class of 1966 or the 5-year class of 1986. Many special events are being planned for October 25-27 and onward.

This year's homecoming launches a year-long centennial . . . Southern Celebrates 100. This will be a year to remember!

A number of chapter meetings are also being scheduled for the coming year. They will provide opportunity for you to meet me, for me to meet you, and for us to exchange ideas. I am interested in what you are doing and no doubt you are interested in good news from Southern.

Although our country has experienced an economic downswing, the Alumni Loyalty phonathon went well this year. As of mid-May, over $25,000 had already come in on pledges made. Thank you for your gifts toward scholarships and equipment.

You will soon be hearing more from us about the pictorial story of Southern's 100 years. This beautiful volume will be off the press for our centennial. Whatever your era at Southern, you will find it a treasury of memories.

Jim Ashlock
Alumni Director

Preparing for the Future of Science Education

By the time Southern's 100th birthday party is over and the presents are all opened, a life-size science building may be ready for assembly.

If dreams come true, before 1992 ends, the multi-million dollar project will be fully funded, a requisite for the start of construction.

About a year later, it's hoped, the three-story science center will be ready for use.

The 50,000-square-foot facility will house the full-blown departments of biology, chemistry, computer science and technology, mathematics, and physics. It would also be the new home for engineering studies, which produces A.S. engineering graduates prepared for further study elsewhere.

The price tag reads $3.9 million. That goal was announced in April, with $2.6 million in lead gift pledges in hand.

A major capital campaign is now in place to raise the balance.

"This project is a necessity in our technological age, something we simply have to do," says President Don Sahly. "It is of compelling importance to have up-to-date facilities for the sciences in order to attract science students and faculty."

Buildings now housing science instruction (Hackman and Daniells halls) have both been around more than 40 years.

Trustees at their April meeting finalized on a site at the south end of the campus. Alumni recognize it as the spot where the structure long known as the "Old Tab" stood (until it burned in 1989). Students expressed preference for the location over an alternate one on the slope between Talge Hall and Mabel Wood Hall.

"The new science building will free us from constant building repairs, will reduce risks in case of fires or other emergencies, and will allow access for wheelchair students," comments Dr. Ray Hefferlin, Southern's senior science professor.

It goes beyond that, he says. "It will make a tangible statement that the college and its benefactors not only intend to have enough excellent teaching faculty and better equipment, but also wish to attract and accommodate its students in the sciences by investing in a modern, adequate, and quality building."

"I'm looking forward to the day when students will have elbow room in the labs," declares Dr. Steve Warren, chairman of the Chemistry Department, "Getting bumped can do things to an experiment."

"Southern College science students achieve far beyond what standard testing procedures would suggest," claims Dr. Hefferlin.

He bases this assessment on his frequent communication with something like 150 former physics students.

"This record was stimulated by dedicated staff who worked with adequate (sometimes very good) equipment, under administrations which have encouraged investigation and scholarship among a united faculty and student body," he feels.

Agreement with Biology Chairman Steve Nyirady's thesis is general: "Southern College students deserve the best in science education and facilities."

After all, they are tomorrow's physicians and physicists, ecologists, engineers, and educators.

314 Grads Ready for |

He came to see his daughter graduate. And when Kathi introduced her daddy, the president of the Seventh-day Adventist Church organization, as baccalaureate speaker, Dr. Robert Folkenberg got all choked up. Parents in the audience understood.

It was a weekend of emotion and pride for parents, teachers, and graduates alike.

The largest class in five years, the 314 graduates included 46 on the Orlando campus.

Seniors of 1991 at Southern received degrees in 28 baccalaureate majors ranging from accounting to social work.

Associate degree recipients represented 10 majors, though 83 of them were A.S. nursing graduates.

Class officers were Robert Young, president; Mark McKenzie, vice president; Nikki Villars, secretary; and Evan Valencia, pastor.

James Ray McKinney, physician, trustee, and also father of cum laude

MARK DE FLUITER

Darin Stewart, Robert Marsa, and Kristin Brown earned distinction as Southern Scholars.

Special Honors

Every graduate and every teacher is honored by the traditional year-end celebration of achievement. Yet some stand out among their peers for one reason or another.

Three students completed Southern's rigorous honors curriculum. This earned Kristin Brown, Robert Marsa, and Darin Stewart the distinction of Southern Scholars.

Robert and Darin joined Heather Naiman, Ann Scofield, and Heather Stuyvesant as summa cum laude (highest honors) graduates. Sixteen others graduated magna cum laude, and 37 wore the green cord as cum laude graduates.

Among the faculty, six were selected by their peers as rendering outstanding service to the college and to their students.

Distinguished Service Medallions were awarded to Dr. Ray Hefferlin (36 years of service in the Physics Department) and to Dr. Wayne VandeVere (35 years in the Business Department). Both were selected for their exemplary leadership, achievement, and service.

Thomas and Violet Zapara Awards for Undergraduate Teaching Excellence were presented to Professor Laura Nyirady (nursing), Dr. Ben McArthur (history), and Dr. Larry Hanson (mathematics). This recognition brings with it $1,000 cash to each recipient.

The Sears-Roebuck Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award went to Dr. Wilma McClarty (English) this year. Besides $1,000 for her, the award brings a matching amount to Southern College itself.

CHAPPELL

Robert Young, class president, responds to the commencement address.

nursing graduate Karen McKinney, spoke on commencement Sunday. His address centered on "The Mark."

Friday evening consecration speaker was Ralph Peay, president of the South Atlantic Conference and also a trustee. He titled his address, "It's the Real Thing."

Charlene Robertson, mother of magna cum laude graduate Kim Craig, addressed the senior nurses for their Saturday evening pinning service with "A Moment in Time."

Southern's graduating class included 119 associate degree seniors, 194 baccalaureate degree seniors, and 2 certificate graduates of the auto body repair curriculum.

Nine graduates completed two majors, and one, Robert Marsa, graduated with majors in physics and mathematics plus an associate degree in engineering studies.

Though rain dampened robes on Sunday, it didn't appear to dampen the exuberance of academic achievement for the graduates of 1991. 🏛️

KEN ZILL

Grand marshal Wayne VandeVere places the mace he carried as he led the processional.

KEN ZILL

At the Nurses' Pinning Service, Lynn Gibson, Kathy York, and Kathi Folkenberg (magna cum laude) sing "Dedication."

Δ Dr. George Babcock has joined the Education Department as chairman. His experience includes presidencies of Home Study International and American Career Training International, Inc.

Δ Jean Springett is rejoining the Nursing Department as an assistant professor of nursing.

Δ Barbara Davis James, '75, is joining the Nursing Department. She just received her MSN degree from the University of Texas. Her husband will teach at Collegedale Academy.

Δ Pam Harris, assistant professor of journalism, has been voted a doctoral study leave for 1991-93.

Δ Dr. Norman Gulley has been voted a split sabbatical, January through August, 1992 and 1993. He plans a manuscript on systematic theology.

Δ Dr. Leon Mashchak and Dr. Ron Springett, professors of religion, are going to Poland this summer to teach at the Adventist seminary there. They are sponsored by the religion department as R. H. Pierson lecturers. They will also visit Warsaw University to help establish a working relationship between the university and the seminary.

Δ David Haley, assistant professor of business administration, has authored a graduate-level text for managers, Managing Productivity and Change. It emphasizes the human element as the essential ingredient of business success.

Δ Volker Henning, assistant professor of journalism, is a member of the advisory committee for Family Matters, a family-oriented ministry directed by Kay Kuzma which is moving to Cleveland, Tenn., from California.

Δ Ken Rogers is the new campus chaplain. He has worked in youth ministry as a member of the Collegedale SDA Church pastoral staff for the past four years.

Δ Jeff Gang will be the assistant campus chaplain for the new school year. A May religion graduate, he plans to attend the Seminary at Andrews University after his year of Taskforce service here, then pastor in the Florida Conference.

Δ Tim Burrill and Erich Stevens, co-editors of the Southern Accent, as well as photographer Gari Cruze and staff writer Andy Nash, were part of the press corps when George Bush greeted returning troops in Sumter, S.C. in March. CNN picked them up on camera while they listened to the President.

Δ Ray Lacey, grounds director, is the new president of the Professional Agriculture and Landscape Management Association. Southern will host the February 1993 meeting of this group comprised of SDA farm and dairy managers, landscapers, and campus grounds directors. Lacey gave three presentations at this year's biennial meeting.

Δ Dr. Doug Bennett, professor of religion, taught a class on the Psalms for this spring's Elderhostel. Stan Hobbs, associate dean of men and history scholar, shared his Civil War expertise, and Judy Glass, professor of music, taught her ever-popular organ class to the 60-years-plus student group enrolled for the week.

Δ Dr. Jack Blanco, chairman of the Religion Department, has been invited to chair the Southeastern Region of the Evangelical Theological Society in 1993. In that year Southern's campus anticipates hosting the annual meeting. In 1992 Blanco will serve as vice chairman.

Δ Helen Pyke, assistant professor of English Department, has a new book published and one soon to be off the press. The Heart and Soul of Landon Harris and The Heart Remembers are both published by Review and Herald.

Δ With the April election of the Board of Trustees—a quinquennial event—the membership of 38 now includes eight new trustees: Gordon Bietz, Collegedale pastor; physicians William Bryan and James Ray McKinney; businessmen W. Jack Gillis and Volker Schmidt, educator Ella Simmons, and two yet to be confirmed at press time.

Δ Dr. David Smith, professor of English, served on the steering committee for the southeastern regional meeting of the Conference on Christianity and Literature held in April at Georgetown University.

Two-Year Study on Target

Centennial Year to Include Reaccreditation Site Visit

by Jan Haluska
Self Study Director

Many special events will mark Southern's centennial jubilee. But one of the most meaningful will be the ten-yearly visit of a factfinding team from Southern Association of Schools and Colleges, the organization responsible for accrediting higher education from Virginia to Texas. They will evaluate our operation in nine major areas.

Some eighty members of Southern's faculty/staff, student body, and board have spent nearly two years helping prepare a comprehensive report for our visitors. We are also producing a separate mini-study for the Orlando campus, to be attached as an appendix to the main document. The process is guided by a steering committee and a director.

"I'm not going through all this effort just to have it turn into a whitewash."

From the beginning we have worked toward a rigorous examination of our school.

"I'm not going through all this effort just to have it turn into a whitewash," commented one faculty member. Still, even though the report highlights needed changes, it also shows dedicated people pulling together effectively. "Overall, we're doing a lot right," another said recently.

Nine committees will be adding finishing touches and last-minute figures to their nearly completed reports during fall semester. The chairs and their committees are these: Pam Harris, Library; Stan Hobbs, Physical Resources; Katie Lamb, Administration; Dr. Ben McArthur, Educational Programs, Dr. Art Richert, Institutional Effectiveness; Dr. Marvin Robertson, Student Services; Dr. Lynn Sauls, Instructional Support; Dr. David Smith, Faculty; Dr. Wayne VandeVere, Financial Resources.

The completed document will go to Southern Association in late fall, with the visiting committee arriving on campus in February of 1992.

This reaccreditation process is not the most spectacular event planned for our centennial year. But amid the festivities, it is a firm step into our future. That is also cause for celebration.

Centennial Projects Planned To Benefit Every Student

What do you give a college that's turning 100 years old?

For people who would like some hints, the Development Office has come up with a couple of ideas, both of them targeted at students while benefiting the college as a whole.

The Century II Endowment Fund campaign was launched November 3, 1984. Though $7 million is already working for students by providing scholarships from earnings, additional scholarships are needed. Scholarships help bring Christian young people to the campus. Scholarships help keep students in school when they hit financial roadblocks.

Especially featured during the Centennial will be the opportunity to create named permanent scholarship endowments. A gift of $5,000 is enough to set up a permanent scholarships tribute to a special teacher, family member, or friend. Those honoring such a person will at the same time be helping needy students on a continuing basis. Dozens of alumni have already created Family Named Scholarships. It's the kind of gift that invites duplication.

A second Centennial option is to assist in replacing outdated, overcrowded science facilities. About $1.3 million is needed now toward this $3.9 million project so construction can begin in 1992. (See page 3.)

Centennial gifts are welcome even now. Call Dr. Jack McClarty, VP for Development, at 615-238-2828 for additional information.

Symphony Orchestra Performs in Spain

Spain was the destination for the Southern College Symphony Orchestra tour. The group of 58 members and 7 chaperons left the campus May 7 and returned May 23.

Guest conductor Allan Dennis was invited by tour organizers MidAmerica International to lead the orchestra for its seven overseas concerts, one of which was on the campus of Sagunto Adventist College near Valencia.

Δ Southern College is among 26 winners nation wide in the 1991 CASE/USX Achievement in Mobilizing Support (AIMS) Awards Program. Chosen as one of 6 outstanding individual fund-raising programs meriting the Standards for Excellence award, Southern's entry was "Building Board Support for a Major $ Match." The awards program identifies and recognizes strong development programs at educational institutions. Vice President Jack McClarty submitted the entry. The win brings Southern $500 and a plaque to be presented on July 16 at the CASE annual assembly in Montreal.

Δ June 25 was the date set for the second Southern College Invitational Golf Tournament. This event, at the Lookout Mountain Golf and Country Club, benefits the student scholarship endowment fund. Verle Thompson is tournament chairman.

Δ A record 588 students, accompanied by 135 sponsors, were guests of the college for its annual College

Days. Guests represented 14 Southern Union academies and an array of public high schools, colleges, and other academies.

Δ Five recent Southern College graduates are accepted to the School of Medicine at Loma Linda University: Robert Addison, Pamela Allen, Eileen Lopez, Myrlene Marsa, '89, and Heather Naiman.

Δ Medical claims by Southern College employees resulted in payouts of $110,179 less in 1990 than in 1989, according to Risk Management figures. This 24 percent reduction in medical claims may show some relationship to the Wellness/Fitness program in which a large number of employees participate.

Δ Trustees have approved the request of Southern Junior College-era alumni, to return So-Ju-Conian Hall—the Religion Center—to its previous name, Harold A. Miller Hall. Miller taught here from 1935-42 and 1945-53 and is the composer of 250 sacred songs and choruses.

Δ Quick Print, now a part of the College Press, has moved to its new location in the Fleming Plaza mini-mall. This puts its photocopying and other graphic services in a more convenient location for many of its customers.

Δ Designated parking spots and a ramp to the second floor of Summerour Hall are in place to provide convenient access for the handicapped. Education, psychology, and other behavioral science classes are conducted in the building.

Δ In the first four months of Southern's recycling program, 86,300 pounds of recyclable items went to the marketplace rather than the landfill. The Grounds Department conducts the program.

Δ Ten Southern College religion majors are participating in a Tampa, Fla., evangelistic crusade as part of their field school of evangelism. During the July 11 to Aug. 17 crusade the students also will have classes on personal and public evangelism, taught by Ron Halvorsen, Southern Union evangelist; and Dr. Derek Morris and Dr. Doug Bennett, both of whom are professors of religion at Southern.

Δ Four days of Communicators Workshops brought 60 writers, public relations professionals, and other participants to the campus May 6 to 9. Sponsored by the Department of Journalism and Communication, workshops covered fundraising, writing for publication, desktop publishing, and video production. Writer Dennis Hensley and more than 20 other professionals assisted with instruction.

Δ Students heading for a career in law may now choose a minor in political economy. Interdisciplinary in nature, the new minor pulls together courses in economics, government, society, and writing. This past year 44 students listed the practice of law as their professional objective. No particular major is required for entry to law school.

No publication project has provided our staff more pleasure than bringing together assorted strands from the past to weave these photographic tapestries.

Someone commented the other day, "Anybody who finds nothing to identify with in any of these pictures must be from a different planet." Well, at least a different time and a different place.

Please take a look for yourself. We hope you will use and enjoy this calendar all year long.

AUGUST

24-25 Fall Semester Registration

26 Fall Semester Classes begin

Compiled by Ingrid Skantz

1930

Charles Aebersold, '38, led three stress management seminars in Jamaica, West Indies, in January 1990. He lives in Louisville, Ky.

Carolyn (McClure) Paxton, '32, and her husband, Glenn, are retired and living in Mena, Ark. They recently helped build a new Adventist church and are active in other church work as well. Carolyn and Glenn say they enjoy growing vegetables, fruits, and flowers.

Arturo Perez, attended '39, and his wife, Pearl, attended '36, retired 12 years ago and live in Apopka, Fla. They have two children and three grandchildren. Art is an elder at the Forest Lake SDA Church and has been singing solos during the past few years. Pearl is a deaconess and Community Services volunteer. They are members of a 50 Plus Club and a Retired Workers Club which they say keeps them busy.

Albert Smith, '35, is retired and spends his time witnessing for the Lord. He and his wife, Juanita, reside in Shreveport, La.

Arturo and Pearl Perez

Robert Chism, '49, retired from pastoring churches in the Clarkston, Wash., area in 1987. He and his wife, Mattie, say they love the mountains, lakes, rivers, and abundant wildlife that surround where they reside in Clarkston.

Sarah (Conger) Cushing, '47, is an RN and works part time at a nursing home. Her husband, Art, was a building contractor and built 60 apartment houses which he now manages and maintains. They have five children and nine grandchildren. Sarah and Art live in Loveland, Colo., and have traveled to the Caribbean, China, Africa, Europe, and the U.S.S.R.

Jack Griffith, '47, is a computer programmer for Western Bank Data Service in Portland, Ore. His wife, Ruth (Jeys), attended, teaches Brazilian embroidery, a three dimensional type of needlework. The Griffiths live in a new home on five acres in Battle Ground, Wash.

Elsie (Landon) Buck, '41, and her husband, Edwin, live in Berrien Springs, Mich. Elsie was in charge of pianists for the General Conference Session and gave a piano recital at the Hyatt Regency during that time. In March 1990 Edwin gave the invocation at a dinner in Palm Springs, Calif., at which former President Gerald Ford was the speaker and in July they attended a reception at the White House in Washington.

Joelle Ringer Sings for Nashville Event

Joelle Crook Ringer, '82, sang the National Anthem and introduced a 21-gun salute at the close of Tennessee Governor Ned McWherter's speech in the state capital last October 4.

The event was the opening of Vietnam Veterans Boulevard (a by-pass interstate in Nashville, 10.5 mi., which took ten years to complete at a cost for the bypass itself of $86 million).

"I know the Lord put me there for a purpose. It was a real honor and an unusual opportunity," says Joelle. "Tons of music celebrities and great media coverage."

Joelle and her husband, Brian, are both 1982 double-major graduates with voice minors. (Joelle: BS home ec, BA art; Brian: BS indust arts, BA religion.) They married in 1981 and taught at Montemorelos in Mexico the final semester before graduating. They expect their first baby in August.

A Nashville resident for seven years, Joelle spends a lot of time in music ministry, does concerts for churches and civic organizations, and does session work. She also teaches adults to oil paint. Brian has his MBA and is director of outpatient clinics at Tennessee Christian Medical Center. They both have taught at Milo Academy and Madison Academy.

Bernice Baker, '52 and '54, is retired and living in Sandy, Ore.

Buddy Blair, '53, has been a self-employed CPA in Chattanooga since 1963. He and his wife, Elsie (Steele), attended, reside in Ooltewah, Tenn., and spend a lot of time in the Smokies and Gatlinburg. They have two children and say they like living around the college because there are so many musical and other programs available.

Ellen (Corbett) Brown, '52, and her husband, Robert, reside in Forest City, Fla. Ellen has been a nurse for more than 30 years and is the administrator of the Concord Park Adult Day Care Center.
